The safety of ALLU employees is our priority. Everyone's wellbeing matters, we care for the safety of our customers and partners. Safety is a core value rooted in our working culture which guides our actions and decisions every day. We identify safety risks and continuously look for ways to improve our safety practices and encourage everyone at ALLU to share their ideas. How to act:

- I will keep safety in mind no matter where I am or what I am doing.

- If something seems unsafe to do, I will stop what I'm doing and contact my supervisor.
- I influence others by showing a good example to those around me.

We create and maintain a good working atmosphere.

Together is one of our core values. Our transparency, clear and open communication is the foundation for our agile working-together culture. We treat our coworkers, partners and customers with honesty and respect. Making fact-based decisions, we work together to build long-term relationships.

Every ALLU employee and their wellbeing is important. It is important that everyone understands their own roles and responsibilities and gets the support that they need. We are all in this together, so when ALLU succeeds, we win as a team. By being performance driven and agile, we evolve with a world full of opportunities.
